PROSECUTOR HITS WOMAN'S TESTIMONY

Beauty Calm as District Attorney Paints Her as Murderess

(United Press Leased Wire.)
LOS ANGELES, March 14—Madalynne Obenchain, her personal ordeal on the witness stand over, today sat silently listening to the argument of Charles W. Fricks, deputy prosecutor, trying to convince a jury that she is guilty of the murder of John Belton Kennedy.

As she listened, an air, almost of relief, was upon Madalynne.

"The worst is over," seemed to be her attitude.

Frick attacked her story of the Kennedy murder, charging that she talked freely about things that had no direct bearing on the crime, but failed to give a full account of the facts necessary to clear up the murder.

He charged her directly with falsifying about her own connection with the tragedy at Beverly Glen.

The dynamic prosecutor scornfully referred to what he designated "her wonderful lapses of memory" which, he charged, Madalynne summoned when it was inconvenient for her to tell facts.

He painted a picture of the pretty defendant as a woman scorned the love of her husband, Ralph Obenchain, and two weeks after her marriage to him, going back to Kennedy, her former sweetheart.

"She is a murderess!" Fricks cried. "It is not contended that she fired the shot that actually slew Kennedy, but it is charged that this defendant entered into a cold-blooded agreement with Arthur Burch or some one else whereby she was to lure him to Beverly Glen and they to kill him!"

The opening chapters of Fricks' argument, begun late yesterday, were acclaimed by legal experts as the start of one of the greatest pleas ever heard in criminal courts here.

Frick's address was without venom and without mercy. He sketched deftly the picture of Madalynne that the state wishes to impress upon the jury, that a woman who would go as far as murder to avenge injured pride.

Her entire story of events preceding the murder he branded as "fabrication—ridiculous—impossible."

A rumor was current throughout the courtroom as the state reopened its case that Ralph Obenchain, the "man in a million," may himself plead with the jury to acquit his ex-wife.

Obenchain, who was student body president at Northwestern University, Evanston, Illinois, was said to be an orator of ability.

The prosecuting apparently took cognizance of this rumor, as Fricks' argument took a line not calculated to aid any plea by Obenchain for Madalynne's acquittal.

"This woman owed some little consideration to Ralph Obenchain," Fricks said in stinging tones, "but she gave him none."

"After she had made her promise in the sacred moments of marriage, not even a month went by until she was false to those vows."

"Not a month went by until she moved to the vicinity of Belton Kennedy's home! Just a coincidence? A most peculiar one."

Taxi Driver Gives Up Opera Star Bride To Run 'For Rent' Car

(United Press Leased Wire)
SANTA CRUZ, Cal., March 14—Floyd Glotzbach has given up his bride and a seat of honor at the Metropolitan Opera for a chauffeur's seat in a taxicab.

The man who quit driving a "for rent" car here a year ago to marry Mrs. Matzenauer, opera star, has returned to his old job with the announcement that he is "here to stay."

Mrs. Matzenauer, with whom Glotzbach declared he had had no trouble, is in New York and reported to be imploring her husband to return to her.

"I just couldn't stand it," he said today. "I just have to work to keep happy."

"It was too much to ask me to sit in the back seat with a chauffeur driving the car when I knew the bearings needed grease."

THIRD TRIAL OF ARBUCKLE PROVES SLOW

Night Sessions In Movie Case Proposed As Selection of Jurors Promises Long Delay.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 14—One juror was passed tomorrow at today's session of Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle's third trial for alleged manslaughter, making two in the box, still subject to challenge.

The session moved slowly. Questioning of prospective jurors indicated fingerprint testimony and the story of the past life of Virginia Rappe, whom Arbuckle is accused of having fatally injured, would figure largely in the evidence.

There was talk of holding night sessions in order to complete the case at the earliest possible date.

"30" BULLETINS

Police Halt Wedding Ceremony as Man Ready to Take Twelfth Bride

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 14.—Isaiah Moore's faith in mystic numbers was strengthened today when he was arrested on the eve of his twelfth wedding.

"I should have known my eleventh wife was the lucky one and stuck by her," he said, "but I was not satisfied. I staked everything on number twelve, more commonly known as 'box cars,' and lost my luck. Besides my eleventh wife, the seventh girl I married was the best of the dozen."

Moore's twelfth wedding ceremony was to have been performed in Minneapolis.

Moore said he could remember the faces of all the girls he left behind but the names in some cases were a bit hazy.

Remove Morris From Post COUNTY FOLK TO AID BATTLE OF PEETE WOMAN FOR LIBERTY

That the depositions of Orange county residents would play a prominent part in the efforts of Mrs. Louise Peete, now serving a life sentence in San Quentin penitentiary for the murder of Jacob C. Denton, to regain her freedom by fastening the crime on a prominent and wealthy man of Los Angeles, became known here today when Attorney S. S. Hahn, representing Mrs. Peete, indicated in Los Angeles that San Juan Capistrano and Laguna Beach witnesses would be asked to corroborate his client's statements.

Hahn, who was employed by Mrs. Angela Kaufman of Los Angeles, a social worker of means who has interested herself in Mrs. Peete, said today that four depositions from as many persons who are said to possess information corroborating Mrs. Peete's story, will be taken within the next few days.

The attorney, accompanied by Mrs. Kaufman, secured from Mrs. Peete at San Quentin last Sunday a signed statement, covering her latest confession, which will be laid before District Attorney Thomas Lee Woolwine by Hahn.

While declining to disclose the names of the witnesses named by Mrs. Peete, the attorney informed a Register representative today that "one witness resides near Santa Ana and another at San Juan Capistrano."

Little Hope For Client
At the same time, Hahn reiterated his belief that there was little hope of Mrs. Peete's immediate release from San Quentin unless Governor William D. Stephens exercises executive clemency in connection with her case.

Regardless of the new developments Mrs. Peete must stay in the penitentiary until the board of parole may deem it proper to release her," said Hahn. "She was lawfully convicted by a jury, and her former attorneys invoked aid of all the courts in her behalf. Her hope is limited to the parole board and an appeal to the Governor."

The parole board cannot act in such cases until a prisoner has served at least seven years of the sentence imposed by the courts."

Investigation here disclosed the fact that one of the witnesses mentioned by Hahn probably is a young Mexican boy employed at a garage, or an oil station, in San Juan Capistrano.

Another witness mentioned by Mrs. Peete was believed to be Harry E. Woods, a wealthy mining man, who formerly resided at Laguna and at Arch Beach.

Seeks To Fix Alibi
In the opinion of Rush M. Blodgett, Los Angeles attorney who, with Detective Al Cody, discovered Denton's body, Mrs. Peete is seeking to establish an alibi in connection with her movements and plans on or about June 2, 1920, when Denton was murdered.

The Mexican boy, Blodgett said, probably would be asked to substantiate Mrs. Peete's statement that he acted as her chauffeur on one occasion, while Woods, in the event he is called upon for a deposition, would be requested to bear out statements that Mrs. Peete was in or near Laguna and Arch Beach on certain dates.

Blodgett, however, who was employed by Denton's daughter to investigate the mystery surrounding his disappearance, places an entirely different construction upon Mrs. Peete's activities in Orange county.

Blodgett, who is still convinced that Mrs. Peete herself committed the crime, said he had every reason to believe that she visited Laguna for a sinister purpose. This, he said, had to do with the disposal of Denton's body.

Urges Treaties As Issue In Congressional Battle

(United Press Leased Wire)
WASHINGTON, March 14—President Harding should withdraw all the arms conference treaties from the senate and ask the country in the November elections for a mandate for their ratification, if the senate rejects the four-power pact, Senator Lenroot, Wisconsin, declared today in a speech to the senate.

Harding should notify the other powers that action on the treaties would be deferred until he had laid the question before the American people for their verdict in the election of successors to senators whose terms are expiring, Lenroot said.

He declared that rejection of the pending treaty would create grave danger that France and Japan would reject the naval limitation treaty and in the end the accomplishments of the Washington conference would be utterly destroyed.

18 DIE AS TERRIFIC TORNADO HITS MINE TOWNS IN OKLAHOMA

(United Press Leased Wire)
Eighteen persons were known dead, between 50 and 75 were injured, some seriously and four towns and communities were wrecked by tornadoes that left destruction in three states in the South last night and today.

McALISTER, Okla., March 14.—Twelve persons were killed, fourteen injured seriously and more than fifty hurt by tornadoes and windstorms which swept southeastern Oklahoma late yesterday, according to reports received here today.

The greatest loss of life was reported at Gowen, a mining town forty miles east of here where ten were killed and more than fifty injured when a twister struck that town about six o'clock last night.

The list of dead at Gowen follows: Chris Wilkinson and baby. George Glambo and two daughters.

Mr. Alamar, child, mother and father. Unidentified man. Property damage at Gowen was estimated at $100,000.

Food, clothing and tents were being rushed into the stricken towns by the Red Cross. The Sulphur unit of the national guard is patrolling the area there and assisting in clearing away the debris. The ruins are being carefully searched for more bodies.

Charge American Oil Magnates In Plot to Seize Rich Russian Zone

(United Press Leased Wire)
LONDON, March 14.—French and American oil interests are backing Baron Wrangel for a proposed attack on the rich Baku oil fields, in case the Genoa conference fails to result in an agreement with Russia, according to reports received by Soviet government officials here today.

Wrangel, indefatigable enemy of Soviet rule in Russia, has arrived at Belgrade. He has in Jugoslavia the nucleus of an army, composed of 30,000 former soldiers of his army which fled to Jugoslavia by way of Turkey after the Russian government quelled his last offensive in the Crimea.

According to official reports received here and in Moscow, Soviet officials said today Wrangel has secured finances for another invasion of Russia from both American and French capitalists.

BROCK MEN WIN BIG BATTLE ON HORTICULTURE APPOINTMENT

After taking a secret ballot, the board of supervisors at 2:40 p. m. today announced that it had voted, 3 to 2, to put A. A. Brock, of Santa Paula, in office as horticultural commissioner of Orange county, to succeed E. L. Morris. The appointment is for four years.

The contest for appointment of an Orange county horticultural commissioner, renewed today before the board of supervisors by rival adherents of the present commissioner, Earl L. Morris, and A. A. Brock, of Ventura county, was slated for settlement at 2:30 this afternoon.

After hearing supporters of both candidates reiterate their respective claims and objections, the supervisors took the matter of appointment under advisement until the afternoon session.

The proposition of operating a county insectary at the expense of the citrus interests, although under supervision of the county horticultural commissioner, was a new issue injected into the situation today. Such a financial arrangement was proposed by the members of the committee, representing the two fruit exchanges of the county, which recommended Brock for the appointment.

Another development of today's board meeting was the appearance of fresh support for Morris. This came in the form of communications from several northern Orange county fruit organizations and caused Chairman T. B. Talbot, of the board, to remark:

"This is growing into a spicy serap."

The communications were forwarded by the Benchley Fruit company, Fullerton, Charles C. Chapman, prominent Fullerton grower, the Fullerton Mutual Orange Growers' association, and the Orange County Nursery company. All defended Morris and urged his reappointment.

The supervisors revealed interest in this proposal, admitting that the question of a county insectary might hinge upon the financial conditions attached to the project.

That the fruit associations are now levying a tax of 14 of a cent a box for operation of an insectary, was stated by Willard Smith, of the Villa Park Orchards association, and George Rehman, of Anaheim.

Defenders of Morris seized this theme to suggest that inasmuch as there is prospect of the citrus interests handling the insectary apart from the horticultural department, any objections to Morris by those whose interests are centered in the insectary are not pertinent to his appointment as horticultural commissioner.

Brock's supporters replied that, inasmuch as the commissioner would have supervision and control of the insectary, it was important that he have the qualifications and technical training which they claim Brock possesses and Morris lacks.

Friends of Brock also objected to hints by Morris sympathizers that the citrus pest situation was a source of over-excitement. N. T. Edwards of the La Habra Citrus association, declared that there was need for more excitement.

He added: "Morris is not excited."

He also declared that a commissioner who was lukewarm on the matter of an insectary would never make a success of it because the man in charge of the war against scale "would have to take his problems to bed with him."

WASHINGTON, March 14.—Coal operators want the miners to strike April 1, in order to keep up the price of coal, John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, charged here today.

"The operators have embarked on a bold commercial policy—they are seeking to negotiate the strike in the hope of keeping up coal prices," he said.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine workers, conferred with Secretary of Labor Davis today on the coal strike threatened for April 1.

Possibilities of negotiating a national conference with the bituminous operators is said to have been discussed.

Observers of the labor department will leave here tonight to attend unofficially the conference of anthracite operators and miners which opens in New York tomorrow.

High hope is held that if a settlement is reached in the anthracite situation it will lay the way open for similar action in the bituminous tangle.

Extreme steps will be taken by the government to protect the public against profiteering in the event of a strike, it was stated here.

The country is in excellent condition to withstand a severance of the coal supply, experts of the government who have studied the coal situation said. The steel industries have enough fuel to run them fifty days after April 1. The public utilities are said to have stored a supply which would last for forty-two days and other consumers are estimated to have on hand enough to run thirty-four days.

The mines of the nation are estimated now to be turning out 3,000,000 tons a week more than can be consumed. All this is being stored by the basic industries.

Texas Oil Magnate Is Held to Answer in Alleged Stock Plot

NEW YORK, March 14.—Seymour E. J. Cox, Texas oil promoter and aviation enthusiast, was arraigned before United States Commissioner Hitchcock today charged with fraudulent use of the mails and held in $25,000 bonds.

He said he would not resist extradition and was willing to return to Houston any time.

Authorities allege Cox promoted a $1,500,000 stock fraud deal. Cox has been in prominence for several years, getting some notoriety by entering two specially built plans in the Paris international meet in 1920. Stockholders of the General Oil company, a $20,000 concern which later went into receivership, claimed that Cox spent $200,000 of their money in the race.

PRESIDENT TO KEEP FREE OF BONUS FIGHT

Decides To Let Congress Settle Argument of Measure; Will Not Address Legion Men.

PALM BEACH, Fla., March 14.—President Harding, having made up his mind, according to members of his party here, not to enter further into the bonus discussion of congress, will not address or meet with leaders of the American legion in convention here this week.

The president, according to those in the party, has nothing further to say on the bonus and will stand on his recommendations for a sales tax or postponement.

The recommendations of Attorney General Daugherty for removal of prohibition enforcement from the treasury to the justice department were expected to bring final decision by the time the president reached Washington.

SENATE DEFEATS RESERVATION TO TREATY

(United Press Leased Wire)
WASHINGTON, March 14.—The senate late today defeated Senator Robinson's amendment to the four power Pacific treaty pledging the signatory powers not to attack other nations and providing that outside countries engaged in disputes with the signatory powers shall be invited to a conference.

This is a victory for the supporters of the pact.

The vote was 30 to 55. It was the first test of strength for the treaty.

Four Republicans voted for the amendment. They were Borah, France, Johnson and La Follette.

Four Democrats voted against it. They were: Pomerene, Ransdell, Underwood and Williams.

The significant feature of the vote is that it revealed the irreconcilable Republican strength to be only four members. The four Republicans who voted for the amendment are expected to be the only members of the majority party who will vote against the treaty.

SAYS BILL WILL HIT BANKING

Treasury Department Head Fears Flood of 'Slow Paper' On Market
DECLARES INTEREST RATES WOULD JUMP
Solons Hear Rumor Harding Dispatching New Letter On Measure

(United Press Leased Wire.)
WASHINGTON, March 14.—The house ways and means committee late today reported out the soldier bonus bill 19 to 5, after voting down an amendment for a sales tax and approving another making loans subject to rediscount in all but federal reserve banks. Republicans voting against the report were Treadway and Tilson; Democrats, Gardner, Collier and Kitchin (by proxy).

WASHINGTON, March 14.—Secretary of the Treasury Mellon came out unequivocally against the present bonus bill in testimony before the house ways and means committee today.

He held it would operate thus:

1.—Put much "slow paper" on the market—a form of security which he said banks ought not to load up on.

2.—Run up general interest rates, thus hampering important government refunding operations.

Democratic efforts to restore the cash bonus, to raise funds for the bonus by an excess profits tax or by larger income surtaxes, were killed summarily in the ways and means committee today. Several other Republican amendments less consequential in their nature were also defeated.

A message from President Harding giving his exact position on the new soldier bonus bill, which Republicans have long sought was rumored today to be on its way here from the president's vacation homeboat along the Florida coast.

According to reliable information, the latest word from the president is being sent to Chairman Fordney of the house ways and means committee and is in response to appeals of administration leaders in the house for a definite statement from the executive as to whether he would veto the latest effort of the bonus bill framers.

Fordney early today declared, however, that he had not received any communication and that his full committee was going ahead this forenoon to report out the measure.

The house, however, is going to pass the bill, its leaders say. What happens to it in the senate, or at the president's veto desk, is a matter about which the bonusers are not troubling themselves at the moment.

Mellon ran counter to Comptroller Crissinger, however, by declaring he would not feel it incumbent upon himself to warn banks against loans on bonus paper.

He admitted the bill could be altered to permit re-discounting by federal reserve banks, but held this not to be very desirable.

"Frozen credits" would result from the bill and re-discounting would not relieve the situation, he said.

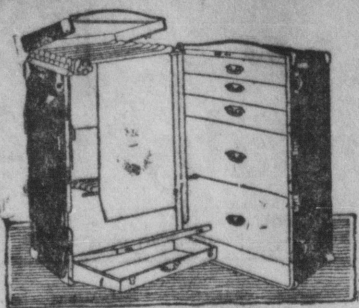

Mellon suggested a sort of sales tax—or a general sales tax—on a broad class of commodities.

He also suggested that the money could be raised by increasing gasoline, stamp and tobacco taxes, but Frick observed that President Harding was unfavorable to this.

Comptroller Crissinger admitted making the statement that he would warn banks against bonus paper. He said many Western banks and some in the East were already in such condition, holding overdue paper, that it would be impossible for them to handle these new securities.

COUNTY FOLK TO AID BATTLE OF PEETE WOMAN

body. Incidentally, the attorney scouted the suggestion that Denton was killed August 14, 1920, as Mrs. Peete indicated in her latest "confession."

Firm As To Death Date

"I think I know something about dead bodies," said Blodgett today, "and I wish to state emphatically that Denton's body had lain in that crypt longer than any thirty days when the detective and I found it. He was murdered June 2, 1920."

"Furthermore, I place no credence in her story that a prominent Los Angeles man killed Denton. I know this man's name, and the editor of every newspaper in Los Angeles probably knows it, but it has never been printed. It would be unfair to him, to say the least, and I think the newspapers probably feel the same way about it. Some seem to think Mrs. Peete tried to make this man one of her victims, failed, and then sought revenge by coupling his name with the crime."

Concerning Mrs. Peete's automobile trips to Laguna and Arch Beach, Blodgett said it was his belief that she was quietly searching for an out-of-the-way spot where she might dispose of Denton's body.

"I think she intended placing a bathing suit on the body and then flinging it into the sea from the cliffs near Laguna," said Blodgett. "That, I believe, was the object of her visit. This supposition is borne out by certain foundations which she laid at the time. For example, she made it clear, time and again, that Denton had gone to the beach, that he had sent for his bathing suit, and that he expected to spend some time near the ocean. In fact, I think the body actually was stripped and made ready for its watery grave. When we found Denton's body in the cellar, the clothing was nicely creased and neatly arranged, as though it had been placed on the body after death."

Change in Plan Mystery

"Just why she abandoned the plan to dispose of the body in the sea, I have never been able to learn, but I'm quite sure she did have this in mind, and that, I think, accounts for her appearance at Laguna and Arch Beach. Having failed in her efforts to carry out this plan, she now proposes to use her visits to Orange county as an alibi."

"The Mexican boy at San Juan Capistrano, as I recall it, drove her car on one occasion, while the man at Laguna Beach, generally believed to be Harry E. Woods, wealthy mining operator, was approached by her in connection with some checks of Denton, which she wished cashed. Woods is now a resident of Los Angeles. At the time she met the Mexican boy, I think Mrs. Peete was driving Denton's car."

Blodgett said that, although it was clearly established in his opinion, that the body found in the cellar was that of Denton, an insurance company which held a policy for $15,000 on Denton's life was still contesting payment of this claim. The company, Blodgett said, takes the stand that the fact was not clearly established that the body was that of Denton.

Both Blodgett and Hahn today admitted that the Los Angeles man named by Mrs. Peete in her statement was both prominent and well to do.

"He is still in Los Angeles," said Attorney Hahn. "I saw him on the street yesterday."

To Appeal To Stephens

Mrs. Peete will appeal to Governor Stephens for the return of her life sentence, it was definite, announced in Los Angeles today.

NAMES FIVE MEN ON Y BUILDING COMMITTEE

Declaring that the project of providing Santa Ana with a Y. M. C. A. building is of such great importance that activity should not be allowed to drag, J. A. Cranston, chairman of the County Committee of the Y. M. C. A., today announced the appointment of the committee which was authorized at the meeting of the county committee yesterday, to take the project in charge.

The appointed committee will meet at a luncheon at James' on Thursday to discuss and formulate plans for the appointment of a large committee of prominent business men to investigate and determine whether the time is opportune to attempt the development of a fund for the new building in Santa Ana.

The committee announced today by Cranston is composed of E. B. Sprague, cashier of the Orange County Trust and Savings bank; Col. S. H. Finley, supervisor and large property holder; Charles H. Chapman, city trustee and lumberman; P. H. Blodgett, president of the Santa Ana Realty Board, and P. A. Robinson, retired capitalist.

"We want to get the plans under way just as quickly as possible, if the larger committee, appointed to investigate, makes recommendation for carrying out the movement," said Cranston today. "The project is one of the greatest importance to the city and should not be permitted to drag along."

'LOST' MAIL FLYER FINDS WAY TO TOWN

RENO, March 14 — Pilot Scott walked into Delle, Utah, at 1:50 in the afternoon after spending the night lost in a blizzard, according to wireless dispatches received at the Reno air mail field. BUENA PARK CENTER MOVES FOR IMPROVED ORANGE COUNTY FAIR

The annual Orange County Fair will be greatly improved this year, if the plans of the Buena Park farm center members are carried out. Extensive discussion of methods of improvement featured the meeting of the center last evening. After selections by the Fullerton high school orchestra of eighteen pieces, under the direction of Harold E. Wahlberg, Robert Hodgson, farm advisor for Los Angeles county, spoke on the work. He gave a resume of the accomplishments during the past year and suggested score cards and a better labeling system as improvements for the coming affair.

Murray Horne, member of the board of directors in charge of the fair plans, agreed with him, as did Farm Advisor H. B. Wahlberg.

Clyde Ritter, of the Buena Park farm center fair committee, recalled the victory of last season, when that community took first prize at Huntington Beach. He challenged the other centers to compete this year. Delegates from other communities responded.

PHONE EXCHANGE SECRETS TOLD BY GIRL HERE

Business men of Santa Ana, identified with the Rotary club, today were given a "close up" of the operations of a telephone exchange, with Miss Eva Hawes, chief operator in the Hillcrest exchange at San Diego, presenting features of the work at the luncheon meeting of the club at St. Ann's Inn.

A number of women employed by the telephone company in the exchanges in the county were present. They were Mrs. Helen Hoskins, chief, Fullerton; Miss Bertha Peterkin, chief, Orange; Mrs. Winifred Faris, chief, Anaheim; Miss Lilly Chaffee, chief, Miss Mille Kiens, information; Mrs. Lella Baird, supervisor; Mrs. Hazel Hargett, long distance; Mrs. Bess Mathis, cashier; Miss Emily Intorf and Mrs. Gertrude Adams, clerks in the manager's office, all of Santa Ana.

Morrow Chairman

E. S. Morrow, manager for the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company, was chairman of the luncheon. Miss Hawes told of many situations that tend to develop trouble and contribute to poor service—and in most instances the cause is the individual subscriber, according to her statements.

Pointing to a fault that many persons have in telephoning, she said that of standing a foot or so away from the phone and then shouting the number, necessitating the operator asking a second time for the number, was one of the most aggravating.

"To insure best results for yourself, there is only one way properly to use a telephone, and that is to speak directly into the mouthpiece in an ordinary conversational voice," Miss Hawes stated. "Your mouth should be an inch or less from the mouthpiece. Those who stand a foot away are the ones who continually complain that no one can hear them. They try to hold their telephones as they do the actors in the movies."

She declared that one of the most general causes of trouble is the twisting of instruments cords. Telephones where cords are twisted develop a scratching noise and soon go out of commission entirely because the thin wires composing the cord eventually break and interrupt the service, she said.

Other Mistakes

Mistakes made frequently by subscribers is that of leaving their receivers off the hook, which makes a signal show in the central office the same as when a subscriber is calling a number, she pointed out. When this happens the operator disconnects the line from the regular switch-board and places it on a special board, where it remains until the repairman can correct the trouble or the subscriber discovers his error and hangs up the receiver. "In the process of establishing each connection there are many possibilities for errors to creep in, but none of these mistakes are intended," said Miss Hawes. "Impatience, abruptness and discourtesy makes the operator's work disagreeable, where courtesy and kindness means more cheerfulness in her work."

W. M. Clayton, vice-principal of the Santa Ana high school, today gave an illustrated lecture on Washington, D. C., before the students of the junior high school. Ninety slides were shown, Clayton explaining each as it was shown on the curtain.

The concert at the First Methodist church tonight by the Emerson quartette is expected to attract a large audience. This made quartette has given four concerts in Pasadena this winter which were highly appreciated, it is said. They have been giving concerts in the churches of Southern California for some months and come with a big reputation.

Santa Ana Post No. 131, American Legion, plans to stage a minstrel show here in the near future. Commander Maurice Enderle announced today. A date will probably be selected tonight at 7:30 o'clock, when a number of boosters for the project will meet at the legion home.

Donald Hopkins, formerly of San Pedro, who was said to have put on the 91st division minstrel show, is one of the prime movers. Others interested are Enderle, William Kneen, Elmer Heidt, Fred Willard, Dr. F. C. Rawland, Maxwell Jayne, Warren Hillard, Walter Spicer and Stanley Reed.

H. B. Woodrough was today planning to attend the conference of sixteen members of the apple growers' committee appointed at a recent meeting in Yucapa. The growers will meet in the farm bureau office in Los Angeles tomorrow morning.

"The way to eliminate competition in the business of selling life insurance is to sell policies, and not to talk about the other company." Will G. Farrell, of Los Angeles, life insurance broker, told fifteen members of the Orange County Life Underwriters' association and their wives at a banquet at James' here last night. John W. Estes jr., of Santa Ana spoke on "How I Obtain Applications." W. L. Duggan, president of the organization, presided.

$4000 DAMAGE IN BEACH GAS BLAST

HUNTINGTON BEACH, March 14.—Damage estimated at more than $4,000 resulted from the explosion of a can of gasoline in the Huntington Beach Tire and Ignition works, 183 Third street, at 11 a. m. today.

A gasoline torch was left near a gallon can of gasoline, according to statements made by workmen, who were outside the building when the accident occurred. It is thought that the torch tipped over and caused the explosion.

The building, a two-story frame structure, was enveloped in flames when the apparatus arrived. The owners, W. E. G. Daniels and W. H. Harper, estimated the damage to the tire stock at $3,500 and to the building at about $500. Residences on the second story were not damaged.

PARENTAL HOME PLAN APPROVAL IS SOUGHT

The Orange county juvenile court committee sought from the board of supervisors today approval of the parental home project, in order that the matter might be presented to the school districts in the county for purposes of levying a special tax to provide for establishing the home.

R. Y. Williams, judge of the juvenile court, told the supervisors that the county was not giving proper attention to its delinquent minors. To house the delinquents in the detention home here along with the dependents was unfair to the latter, he said. On the other hand, he pointed out, there was no other place where they could be placed, except the jail, which procedure would be against the state law.

It was suggested that a tract of at least twenty acres would be needed for a parental home. The supervisors objected to use of the southern part of the Orange county hospital acreage for the purpose, inasmuch as that portion was subject to inundation during periods of high water in the Santa Ana river.

A twenty-acre property would be needed, committees said, to provide for drill grounds and various other adjuncts. The supervisors informed the committee that virtually the one course open to provide funds was to levy a special tax. To do this, the supervisors' approval must be had, and the school districts in the county must also sanction the levy.

WILL RECALL LIFE AS TUSTIN SCHOOL BOYS

Happy incidents of school life will be recalled by a hundred or more men of this vicinity next Friday night at 8 o'clock when they gather at the Tustin school house for a dinner and re-union of "boys" who attended school there during the twenty-four years Prof. J. J. Zielian was principal.

A notice sent to former students of the school whose addresses are known to those in charge of the reunion says that the occasion will be one where all may "set together" and have a banquet in honor of Prof. J. J. Zielian, who will be there at this time.

The notices were mailed by John Crawford, of Tustin, and he has received responses from 100 men, ninety of whom have said they will be present, the others expressing their regrets. Two hundred announcements were mailed and it is expected 150 men will respond in person.

Ira Lock today urged that response cards be returned without delay so that the women who are to serve the dinner will know for how many to prepare.

ROOF REMOVAL BRINGS CHARGE AGAINST TRIO

A charge of disturbing the peace has been filed today by Mary Snider Milbrat, of Anaheim, against her husband, Oscar Milbrat, Alphonse Milbrat and Hugo Milbrat. Mrs. Milbrat, who recently failed in an attempt to secure a divorce from her husband, it is said, complained that he and the others named in her complaint, committed the offense charged by the noise and confusion they made yesterday in removing the roof from the house where she lived.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 14 — Joseph Wellner, alias Reed, was held by police here today at the instance of Mrs. Angela Kauffman, Los Angeles social worker.

Mrs. Kauffman, who devotes much of her time to aiding persons accused of crime, came here to visit Mrs. Louise Peete, held at San Quentin penitentiary under a life sentence for the alleged murder of Jacob C. Denton.

While here Mrs. Kauffman received information, she told authorities, which caused her to believe Wellner implicated in the robbery of her home in Los Angeles, February 6 and she immediately caused his arrest.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 14 — Danger of a contest over the estate of the late Jack Spreckels was over today.

Through proceedings in court here late yesterday, it became known that neither Mrs. Sidi Wirt Spreckels nor Edith Wakefield Spreckels, second and first wife, respectively, will contest the two wills left by Spreckels.

Provision has been made, it was understood through a secret agreement, for the care of the two children, one by each marriage.

POLICE HAVE NAMES OF DEATH SUSPECTS

(United Press Leased Wire)
CAMDEN, N. J., March 14 — Police were today positive they knew who killed John T. Brunen, circus owner and friend of William Desmond Taylor.

Several weeks before Brunen was slain with a shotgun fired through the window of his Riverside home, he told friends his life had been threatened, named those who had made the threats and told of two instances when attempts to carry out the threats had been made, according to Detective Parker, in charge of the investigation.

Parker refused to disclose whether the murderer was a man or woman but declared he could lay hands on the suspect.

Fair Daughter of Florida Becomes Bride of Santa Ana

Preparations for the reception of Mr. and Mrs. Leal Graham Barr, whose marriage was a recent event of the social circles of Orlando, Florida, were being made today by Mr. Barr's relatives and friends in this city who are eagerly awaiting his return with his lovely bride.

The wedding was a brilliant one, occurring on a late afternoon in February at St. Luke's Cathedral, Orlando, with the marriage service read by the Rev. R. P. Cobb. Mrs. Barr was Miss Grace Picton Warlow, daughter of Judge Thomas Picton Warlow, and at the beautiful ceremony she entered the flower-decked church on the arm of her father, preceded by the bridal party composed of five groomsmen and an equal number of young bridesmaids, the latter arrayed in frocks of lavender georgette and rose taffeta, with which they wore lavender straw and rose georgette hats with sweet pea trimmings and carried quaint baskets of sweet peas.

Miss Betty Barr, sister of the groom, as maid of honor, was beautiful in Nile green chiffon over cloth of silver with lace panels and side draperies and hat to harmonize, and carried an arm cluster of pink roses. Mr. Barr, entering from the chancel room with his best man, Kendrick Guernsey, awaited the coming of the bride—a lovely picture in her wedding gown of georgette satin whose Grecian draperies and flowing georgette sleeves were swathed in her beautiful lace veil, an heirloom in her family.

The long court train of the gown was embellished with sprays of hand-made roses and her shower bouquet was of bride's roses and lilies of the valley.

On the evening of the same day Mr. and Mrs. Barr left for their home in this city. Mrs. Barr wearing a becoming traveling suit of French blue with small harmonizing hat and top coat of camel's hair cloth.

Upon their arrival in this city they will remain for awhile with Mrs. A. M. Gardner, 323 East Washington street, awaiting the completion of the attractive apartment on West Nineteenth street, where they will make their home.

Mrs. Barr is a graduate of Fairmont college in Virginia and of the Girl's Latin school of Baltimore, while Mr. Barr is an alumnus of the University of Michigan. A nephew of O. H. Barr of this city, he is an employee of the Barr Lumber company and will resume his place following his return.

He left February 16 for the trip to Orlando and his many friends who knew the reason for his going await with great expectancy the return with his charming wife, who will be a decided acquisition to the younger social set of the city.

Plans Being Perfected for Entertainment of Distinguished Guest

That James's gold room was the place finally selected for the scene of the luncheon with which the Fourth District C. of M. and P. T. A. will honor the arrival in this community of Mrs. Milton P. Higgins of Worcester, Mass., national president of the organization, was the announcement made today by Mrs. John Clark, chairman of the luncheon committee and Mrs. Earl Morris, president of the Fourth District.

Many details of equal importance were discussed Saturday at the regular quarterly executive board meeting of the C. of M. and P. T. A. of the Fourth District held at Freemont school, Anaheim. As a result, plans for the long-anticipated visit having the formal opening, are practically completed with the exception of a few minor details, and the programs for the event will soon be issued.

Friday, March 31 will mark the opening of the important session, and the first business to be transacted at the meeting place, the First Congregational church of this city, will be the election of officers at 9:30 Friday morning, immediately following the formal opening. Mrs. Higgins is expected to arrive in the city Thursday night and will be present for the opening session.

Among other business matters receiving consideration at Saturday's meeting was the reiteration of the resolution presented a year ago, that the association go on record as favoring the establishment of the parental school, to be brought to the attention of the supervisors at their meeting in progress today.

Mrs. W. B. Tedford, chairman of the committee, is also a member of the juvenile court committee of the county which was to present the matter to the supervisors for their consideration.

In view of the interest being aroused in the native wild flowers, a ten dollar prize will be offered by the association to the school having the largest and best collection of native wild flowers by the end of a designated week in May. In addition to the prize, the school will have the honor of having its collection made a part of the exhibit at the state convention to be held in San Diego May 23 to 26.

The next executive board meeting of the C. of M. and P. T. A. will be held in Birch Park on June 10.

Two-in-One Club

Community house of the First M. E. church was the scene of a most pleasant gathering last night when the Two-in-One class of the Sunday school held the regular business meeting followed by a pleasant social time.

Among the business features acted upon by the forty members present, was the raising of a fund to be applied on a new piano for the Community house. Money was also voted from the treasury to send flowers to the sick and to provide 25 bibles to be used in Sunday school classes. Much gratitude was expressed to Mr. Barr, the teacher, for the gift of a bookcase where class books and supplies may be kept.

An amusing and interesting automobile event formed the entertaining feature of the evening, with Joe Head, proving the speediest at tire changing, and Mr. Woodhouse also providing himself an excellent player.

All then enjoyed the appetizing refreshments served by Mrs. Alfred Hardin and Mrs. Alvin Burns.

An invitation extended by the Rev. John Oliver and Mrs. Oliver to the class to meet with them at their home was accepted for the April meeting.

Christian Endeavor

The entertainment announced by the Christian Endeavor society of the Christian church, to be held at the church tonight, has been postponed until Tuesday night, March 21, at which time the original plans will be carried out.

Fraternal Aid Union

Regular meeting of the Fraternal Aid union will be held at M. W. A. hall Friday evening, March 17, at 7:30.

Edison Social Club

Discussion of the new quarters soon to be enjoyed by members of the Edison Social club shared in interest with the successes of the ball club at the business meeting held last night at the Edison office.

Owing to so much illness among the employees, the last social meeting was cancelled but the new quarters being arranged in the office building are expected to be in readiness for the April meeting. These will be purely temporary but will serve nicely until the new Edison building is completed when the club will take possession of the luxurious quarters designed especially for clubwomen.

Much interest has been taken by employees of the company in the educational advantages offered by the correspondence courses with the University of California. Classes have been arranged in advance mathematics, economics and other subjects under the direction of George Barrett, chairman of the educational committee. In addition to the special courses, attention of the men is drawn to magazines both electrical and otherwise, which are made available by the educational committee.

Missionary Society

When members of the Missionary department of the Woman's Union of the Congregational church meet tomorrow afternoon in the church parlors, they will have as their guests, the women of the Villa Park and Buena Park congregations.

It is hoped that a large number of the local members will be present to extend the hospitality of the church to the guests.

The meeting will be in charge of the president, Mrs. C. H. Crose, while devotionals will be led by Mrs. Mary Bruner. Mrs. L. M. Smith will continue her review of the book, "The Kingdom and the Nations."

Mrs. James H. Lash, president of the Southern branch of the W. B. M. P. will be present to speak on the Jubilee Year, coming in the place of Mrs. Ramsey, the official representative of the work.

Hostesses for the day will be Mesdames A. J. Crookshank, C. S. Crookshank, Ella Campan, I. O. Calkins and Miss Lida Crookshank.

Merry Millinery Maids Seek Spring Styles In City Shops

"With a ribbon and posy and a bit of lace upon it" was the description accorded the bonnets of a bygone day, and it was with the hope of seeing chapeaux of equally fascinating quality, that a merry group of young girls left Santa Ana high school this morning, under competent chaperonage of two members of the faculty, Miss Bertha Stein and Miss Ruth Rowland, for a study of the new spring styles as exemplified in Los Angeles hat shops.

The girls making the trip comprised the Misses Pearl Ashby, Dorothy Sammis, Glendine Elliott, Marjorie Rawlings, Isabel Bennett, Virginia Bigelow, Edith McBride, Laura Morris, Beulah Ellis, Bernice Ellis, Marjorie Smith, Ruth Langley, Leah Crane, Grace Wells and Zena Belle Bryant. These are members of the millinery classes at the high school and expect to bring home many clever ideas which they will put into use in spring creations.

Household Economics

Mrs. J. W. McCormack will be entertaining hostess to the members of the Sixth section Household Economics meeting at her beautiful home 112 Church street, Friday, March 17, for 12:30 luncheon.

St. Patrick's Day Bride Is Incentive for Smart Luncheon

Among the charming affairs honoring Miss Ruth Visel whose marriage to Edward Power on March 17, will be one of the leading social events of the week, was the bridge luncheon given at James's gold room Saturday by Mrs. Jerry Asher (Miss Elsie Lutz) of Imperial.

Mrs. Asher is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Lutz of Balboa and took the opportunity while in the vicinity, to honor one of her friends in the charming manner.

Masses of jonquils formed the attractive floral motif of the luncheon served at one long and artistically arranged table. Guests found their places by means of dainty little brides in water colors on the pretty cards.

Bridge formed the afternoon's diversion with head prize being awarded Mrs. Howard Timmons and Miss Marguerite Tedford receiving consolation while the lovely guest prize, went of course, to Miss Visel the lovely honoree.

Relief Corps

Members of the Woman's Relief Corps will hold the regular meeting at G. A. R. hall, Thursday afternoon, March 16, at 2 o'clock.

WOMAN'S CIVIC CLUB
TO ENTERTAIN LEADER

LA HABRA, March 14.—Although it was only the primary election of the Woman's club of La Habra which was held here at the social hall, Mrs. C. E. Tower was elected president for her third term as a majority ballot at the primary elections, under the laws of the club.

Mrs. Tower accepted office after much urging, it being felt by the members that the uncompleted work of building the club home should be finished by this capable executive who started the project.

Others who were returned to office and declared elected were Mrs. J. I. Williams, recording secretary, Mrs. Charles Varney, treasurer, Mrs. M. E. Caldwell, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. John Akers, historian. Mrs. Tower and Mrs. M. F. Davis were elected trustees.

At the election proper, which will take place next month, the names of Mrs. W. O. Rhodes and Mrs. Davis will be balloted on for first vice president, Mrs. J. H. Walker and Mrs. Bloomer as second vice president and Mrs. C. L. Crumrine, Mrs. Bloomer, Mrs. Caldwell and Mrs. F. R. Drake for the third trustee.

The program was a novel one in that each member brought her favorite recipe and the dish all prepared. The food was sold, nearly $7 being realized and the recipes were collected to be used in the club cook book, which will be published in the near future.

"PENROD"

Marshall Neilan Film at Yost is Epic of American Boyhood

By FRANCES DEANER

Every man who was ever a boy should see "Penrod."

Cynics have declared that Booth Tarkington's inimitable characters of American boyhood, involved in the "Penrod" stories, could never be successfully transferred to the silver screen in one complete feature picture. They pointed out the impossibility of securing the juvenile players that the story called for, for the lack of connected sequence between the episodes and the absence of counter action to make a story of dramatic value for the screen.

But they were all wrong.

"Penrod" came to the Yost theater last night and thoroughly delighted a large audience that was kept in a constant titter, bubbling over into spontaneous, wholesome laughter every little while. To men, especially, who have not grown too old to recall they were once boys, the action of the piece must be, indeed, heart-warming.

And Wesley Barry is Penrod Schofield to the last reck.

Even if one has forgotten how to laugh, he surely cannot escape the humor of the sequence in which Penrod is unwillingly "presented" in a children's amateur theatrical production, in which he is cast as Sir Launcelot, and protests when mother and sister make him a pair of trunks from a recognizable remnant of father's old red flannel underwear.

Men will live again their boyhood days with Penrod and Sammy Williams and the rest of them, including Verman and Herman, in their underground headquarters of the "American Boys' Protective Association." This is the secret society frowned upon by the respective families of the boys, but it undergoes one of those queer twists of plot that causes the adults

TRACK STARS OF THREE COUNTIES TO STAGE BIG MEET AT POLY SATURDAY

Coach Adkinson Working Local Squad Hard for Big Event; Pomona; Riverside, Fullerton, Hemet, Santa Monica and Redlands Enters Teams

With the Tri-County meet only a few days away, Coach Ray Adkinson is putting his charges through a stiff course of training. He is counting on the local lads to annex some high places in the meet.

The coming meet will be the largest track event in the South this year, except the All-Southern, and some of the South's best athletes will be seen in action on the local field Saturday.

In spite of the fact that the track will not be in perfect condition, some very fast time is looked for. Adkinson expects to see the track completed by Wednesday.

Manager Hatcher has been negotiating with the Pomona college freshmen and Caltech for a practice meet to get the locals in trim for the big meet. The Pomona faculty called off the former, though, because of a recent scrape the Fresh had gotten into and Caltech was forced to decline as their conference meet takes place Saturday and they didn't wish to overwork their athletes in the meanwhile. Because of the failure to secure these meets, the Poly squad will take on the high school ineligibles Wednesday on the local track. This meet, besides giving the men practice, will serve to determine how fast the new track really is.

The schools already entered are Pomona, Huntington Beach, Capistrano, Riverside, Hemet, Fullerton, Orange and Anaheim. Entry lists of San Diego, El Monte, Santa Monica, Redlands, Army and Navy academy, and Compton are expected soon. It is hard to predict the results of the meet, but one thing is certain, and that is that the meet will be close. The quality of the majority of the teams is unknown, but it looks as if Santa Ana or Huntington Beach stand the best chance of coping the honors.

Santa Ana is expected to have everything its own way in the relay. No team has been able to come within five yards of them so far this year and it looks as if the locals will keep their record clean Saturday.

The 100-yard dash will be perhaps the most terrific struggle of the day. With such sprinters entered as Finley and McPadden of Santa Ana, Penny of Pomona, Cook of Anaheim and Sherb of Santa Monica, the result is bound to be close. Sherb, though, is thought to have a slight edge.

The 440 will also bring together some excellent material. Finley, Cook of Anaheim, and Harms of Orange should give the fans a thrill in this event. Bickmore of Huntington Beach and Smith of San Diego should make it hot for each other in the pole vault. Both are capable of clearing close to 12 feet.

Messing is almost a sure bet to capture first honors in the low sticks. He has easily beaten every one he has been up against this year and he is fairly sure to keep his state of victories clean in Saturday's contest. Claves of Anaheim should give him a good race. Nash of Huntington Beach should take the broad jump with ease. Finley and Messing will make him exert himself, though. The shot put will also be close, there being several men who toss it well over 40 feet. Jabs and Hoagland of Santa Ana, Ford of San Diego and Cook of Anaheim are some of these huskies.

Kerr, Huntington Beach's long-winded runner, is expected to win the mile and 880 with ease. Hellman of San Diego should push him in the former event. Vauter of Santa Ana and Hellman will run an exciting race for second place in the longer distance. The local runner came within a foot of beating Hellman at San Diego last Saturday and many of the fans think he has it in him to beat the San Diego captain.

POLY STUDENTS DEFEAT MEMBERS OF FACULTY IN FAST TENNIS MATCHES

High school students are taking sweet revenge on the faculty in the faculty-student tennis matches now being staged on the Poly tennis courts.

Clifford Marston, student, met W. C. Bates of the faculty in the first set of the series, taking all three games, 6-2, 6-4, 6-3. The second sets were doubles. Darold Meyer and Earl Willard, met W. M. Clayton, vice-principal, and J. A. Cranston, city superintendent of schools. The students also won this set but by closer scores, 8-6 and 7-5.

The girls of the student body are also playing the women faculty members. Enid Twist and Marjorie Tubbs, students, met Miss Mary Swann and Miss Verna Peterson of the faculty in three consecutive sets. The students won the first and tied for the third. The scores were 7-5, 6-6, and 6-6. This afternoon Coach Nellie was to play Veda Freeburg of the student body.

White flannelled youths from the Poly High will open the Orange League tennis season when they

LOS ANGELES READY TO MAKE FIGHT FOR 1924 OLYMPIC MEET

LOS ANGELES, March 14.—Should Paris voluntarily relinquish the 1924 Olympic games, Los Angeles will make a strong fight for them.

This was the assertion today of Robert S. Weaver, who, as president of the National Amateur Athletic union last year, directed this city's campaign for the Olympiad.

"Los Angeles is prepared and has offered to pay all the expenses of all contestants, which will probably total $1,000,000. The amount has been pledged by the Community Development Association of Los Angeles," President W. M. Garland of the Community Development association said that the Olympiad, if won by Los Angeles, would be held in the great new stadium at Exposition Park, to be finished in eighteen months.

LOW 7-2'S HANG UP VICTORY ON DIAMOND

Low 7-2 proved victorious over Low 7-3, 7 to 6, in an indoor baseball game at Washington school grounds last evening.

The Seven two's started out to win in the first inning, when they garnered four points, at the same time blanking the three's. In the third team chased a man across the plate. From that time on the three's engaged in a rally, scoring two in the fifth and three in the sixth. In the final inning, however, the two's scored a brace of runs and copped the victory by a single point.

Umpire—Wylie Carlyle.

ing race for second place in the longer distance. The local runner came within a foot of beating Hellman at San Diego last Saturday and many of the fans think he has it in him to beat the San Diego captain.

Coffroth Hangs Up Big Purse for Race At Ti Juana Sunday

SAN DIEGO, March 14.—The Coffroth Handicap, carrying a purse of $20,000, the largest ever offered on a winter race track for horses two year olds and up, will be run at Ti Juana, Mex., next Sunday.

The largest crowd in the history of the border track is expected for this year's annual classic. Such crack steeds as Lantados, Be Frank, East Indian, Regal Lodge, Louis, Breeze, Rifle, Star Realm, Veteran Planet, Bullet Proof, Motor Cop, Sunnyland and Belgian Queen are eligible for the mile and a quarter stake.

SEATTLE HOLDOUTS PLAN TO JOIN TEAM

MYRTLEDALE SPRINGS, Cal., March 14.—The Oaks, after devoting yesterday largely to infield practice, planned to divide the squad and play a game this afternoon. Yesterday's workout was not very exciting, excepting that Mike Fisher, veteran manager, visited the camp and put on a uniform for an hour.

STOCKTON, Cal., March 14.—Brick Eldred and Marty Krug, Seattle holdouts, will be in camp here before the end of the week, Walter McCredie believed. Eldred, it was said, came to terms yesterday and will arrive here today from Sacramento. Krug is reported en route from San Diego.

MODESTO, March 14.—Steffert, pitcher from Chicago, and Van O'dell, outfielder from Los Angeles, were turned loose today by Duffy Lewis, Salt Lake manager. It was understood that Duffy had his pruning knife well sharpened and will wield it to still further effect during the week. Yesterday the Bees batted three miles, had an hour's hitting practice and played a few innings of regular baseball.

BOYES SPRINGS, March 14.—The Seals have a game scheduled for tomorrow with the All-Army club from the San Francisco presidio.

THREE TEAMS TIED FOR BOWLING LEAD

Leadership In Anaheim League Knotted Following Monday Games

ANAHEIM, March 14.—Three teams are now tied for first place in the Anaheim Bowling league as a result of last night's games in which the Buick bowlers knocked the Little Ambassadors off for a couple of games and the Studebakers took the Dew Drop Inns into camp by the same margin. Last night's results place the Little Ambassadors, Buicks and Studebakers in a tie for first honors.

Walter Schneider, the kid member of the Buick team, was the star in last night's games. In addition to coping high game honors with a total of 255 pins he also took high series honors with a score of 603. Schneider's work was principally responsible for the defeat of the Little Ambassadors.

Jimmy Heffron of the Studebakers copped second high series honors with a score of 592 pins, just eleven pins short of Schneider's score. Bill Karam of the Little Ambassadors grabbed off second high game honors with a score of 221 in his third game.

HARRY GREB STAGES SURPRISE PARTY IN DEFEATING GIBBONS

NEW YORK, March 14.—Long faces filled the dressing room around Tom Gibbons. They had all gone down with him but Jack Britton.

"I saw you were stale in the gym and I bet on Greb," the welter weight champion said.

Which is one theory and perhaps the real reason why Gibbons lost the decision after a fifteen round bout last night with Harry Greb that was expected to develop the next opponent for Jack Dempsey.

Greb had a clean margin in nine of the rounds, three went to Gibbons and three were about even. Greb won because he was better than Gibbons, and because Gibbons was poorer than he had ever been.

As a fight it was a disappointment. It was furiously fast and hotly contested, but the impression stood out all over that either one or both would be easy for Dempsey.

Neither Greb nor Gibbons was punished. Both bled a little around the mouth. Beyond puffed lips, neither was marked at the end of the battle. Both were comparatively fresh at the finish.

Greb really is one of the marvels of the ring. The Pittsburgh boy covered himself with glory and might be easy for Dempsey but it's a sure thing he would make it mighty lively for the champion while he lasted.

INCOME REPORTS KEEP DEPUTIES BUSY HERE

Income taxpayers, who contemplate mailing their reports to the Los Angeles office must do so in time to reach that office not later than tomorrow, otherwise they will be delinquent, according to a statement today by Elmer B. Burns, income tax collector for Orange county.

Burns made the statement as a warning and advised that those who cannot mail their reports to reach the Los Angeles office on time should file notices with him or his assistant. They will be on duty at the city council chamber until midnight tomorrow night, if necessary, it was announced.

There was a big rush of taxpayers at the office today, as was expected would be the case when the final hours approached. Both collectors were kept busy receiving filings. They are anticipating a still greater rush tomorrow.

Washington dispatches received here today said that income taxes reported to the government this year would be the smallest in five years, according to treasury officials' estimates.

The total of income and profits taxes, which will be reported by midnight tomorrow will approximate only $1,600,000,000, the tax experts at Washington believe. This is nearly $2,000,000,000 under the amount reported two years ago and $900,000,000 under the amount last year.

At the peak of the war profits period, the government received in excess of $4,000,000,000 a year from these taxes.

No estimate was available as to the number of returns that would be filed this year. It was believed it would not exceed $3,500,000. During the war period the total was in excess of $5,000,000.

The "eleventh hour" has brought to Washington some interesting "feature stories" regarding this year's payment. One is that Henry Ford will be this year's largest taxpayer, with a payment of $27,000,000. This would be an income in excess of $50,000,000.

Another is that King George of England and ex-kaiser Wilhelm of Germany are paying income tax here annually on investments. The tax is said to be taken out of their dividends by their representatives here before the money is sent to them. All these stories lack verification because of the extreme confidential nature of income tax returns.

MAN SLIGHTLY HURT IN SERIES OF CITY TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS

One man was slightly hurt in a series of three traffic accidents occurring in this vicinity, it was shown today in reports filed at police headquarters.

Ruperto J. Serrano, Mexican, received minor scratches on one knee, when his buggy was struck by a motorcycle and side car, operated by R. H. Griffin, of Balboa, 1 1/2 miles north of Tustin at 2:45 p. m. yesterday. Serrano slid from the buggy seat to the ground when the buggy axle bent, tipping the vehicle to one side. He was taken to a physician, who pronounced his injuries slight.

Cars driven by H. L. Green, 320 East Maple avenue, Orange, and V. E. Berghofer, R. D. 3, Anaheim, were damaged in a collision on North Main street, north of the S. P. crossing, yesterday afternoon.

Leo Chumli, R. D. No. 1, Santa Ana, and J. W. Patterson, Long Beach undertaker, figured in a third collision at Fourth and Garvey streets, this city, late yesterday, when Patterson attempted to pass to the right of Chumli's car, it is said, as the latter was making a turn to the right.

CONTINUE PROBE OF CUMBERLAND DEATH

Orange county deputies, acting under instructions from Sheriff C. E. Jackson, today were continuing their investigation of the circumstances leading up to the death of Julian F. Cumberland, wealthy retired rancher of Los Angeles, whose body, with a piece of railroad iron wired to the neck, was found on the sands near Sunset Beach.

Although admitting that valuable clues, provided in an anonymous letter, together with reports gathered by officers working on the case in Los Angeles, had been placed before him, Sheriff Jackson declined to make public certain angles of the mystery now being investigated. Jackson himself still holds to the belief that Cumberland was a victim of foul play.

Jackson, who was in Los Angeles today, was expected to interview officers and others who have followed the developments in the Cumberland case. The sheriff was especially interested in a letter, received by Mrs. Rex Kratz, daughter of the dead man, in which, it was said, valuable information was contained.

The sheriff was also checking up on Cumberland's movements on the day of his disappearance, investigating his business dealings, and tracing a letter Cumberland's wife received from him. That Cumberland was apparently in a normal frame of mind and was seen to alight from a street car in the heart of Los Angeles shortly before 10 a. m., Friday, March 3, the day of his disappearance, leads Jackson to believe Cumberland wrote the alleged suicide note under duress and was then murdered. The letter received by Mrs. Cumberland was postmarked at Los Angeles, 11:30 a. m., March 3.

NEWPORT EXCITED AS STREET CHIEF QUILTS

Newport Beach buzzed with excitement today, following a meeting of the board of trustees, there last night in which Frank J. Knight, city superintendent of streets, resigned and Frank Rinehart was named to succeed him until the regular election April 10.

Knight did not attend the meeting. Trustees intimated that he quit because he claimed that 400 feet of pipe of the sewer now being installed at the beach was laid without being properly inspected by City Engineer Paul Kressly. He had taken the matter up with them individually, they said, and told them he would resign because things were not going as they should, in his estimation.

Eight inspectors are employed by Newport to investigate the laying of the sewer and several of them were called to the meeting last night to testify as to whether they had inspected the 400 feet in question.

The inspectors held that all of the pipe that had been laid had been properly investigated to see that everything was done according to specifications.

Rinehart will act as city superintendent of streets until the election next month when the office comes up for vote.

The Newport sewer system is being laid with money from the $356,000 bond issue voted last summer.

OLD-TIME BUGGY GREATER MORAL MENACE THAN AUTO TODAY?

W. C. T. U. Here Surprised at Views Held by Leaders at Chicago

BIG INTEREST IN S. A.
Suggestion from Mid-West
That Former Games Be Revived Favored

Members of the W. C. T. U. here today were discussing with lively interest the proposal of Chicago women that the old-fashioned games, such as "spin the platter," "going to Jerusalem," and "Captain Jinks of the Horse Marines," be revived for the purpose of supplanting the ubiquitous jazz.

At the same time, Santa Ana leaders of the W. C. T. U. movement learned with surprise that Chicago women held that the old-fashioned buggy menace was worse than the automobile menace of today.

While declining to speak in her official capacity, Mrs. J. H. Scott, president of the Santa Ana W. C. T. U., said that it was her personal opinion that the unchaperoned automobile ride was "ten times worse than the buggy ride."

The moral menace of the old-fashioned buggy passed all the potentialities of the automobile, according to a bulletin issued by the morality department of the national W. C. T. U.

Expresses Doubt
Written by Mrs. Ruth Kimball Gardner, the article expressed doubt as to whether the modern dance steps and other amusements of the present generation are "proportionately more dangerous than the kissing games of bygone days."

It concluded with a plea to parents "to train yourselves first; then you will be in a position to train your children."

"Reviving interest in merry games is not a reform measure," said Miss Florence Lawson, physical director of the Chicago Y. W. C. A. "The idea is to see that young people get started early at playing wholesome games, if they are brought up right, there is less danger of their going in for harmful amusements."

"Wholesome games should always be encouraged," said Mrs. G. P. Hill, county president of the W. C. T. U., in endorsing the suggestions outlined by Miss Lawson. "As for the old-fashioned buggy kiss, as well as the automobile kiss of today, the modern dance innovations and other measures, I can see no necessity."

Rambling Around

Gossip of the City
By Eddie West

"That tickled me," said City Marshal Sam Jernigan as he leaned back in his easy chair at the police station and gently flicked the ashes off his cigar.

"The boys brought in four Los Angeles fellows Saturday night who were—well, slightly under the influence of that stuff."

"They were all nice appearing fellows, too, and in pretty good spirits."

"When we started to question them, one of them leaned over, grabbed my coat collar and said very earnestly:

"Say, Chief, there are lots of murderers and thieves going round loose. Whatcha ya wanta bother with ush poor boobs for?"

"Since Clapp entered 'granddaddy row' recently, Gram has taken great delight in tormenting him, always, it seems, when the fountain is lined with customers."

"Say, Granddaddy, give me a coke," Gram said the other day, as he eased up to the counter just as Clapp put a malt "on the fire."

Now Ben Clapp is known as one of the best natured men in town but he gave his tormentor a quick comeback.

"Get away little rash, you irritate me," he said.

DIRECTORS FORSAKE WALKER.
Now when it comes to respect Victor Walker has the reputation of being as well posted as any man in Santa Ana—in everything except golf.

Among those who often are seen conversing with him are C. H. Parkins, George Briggs, Sherman Stevens, Conrad Crookshank and S. C. Cherry. These men term themselves Walker's "board of directors."

Perkins is "president" and Briggs is vice-president.

And George Briggs is known as a golf player of no mean ability.

"Say, Vic," he said some time ago, "you have a nice store but where are your golf sticks?"

The matter was discussed by the "board of directors" and it was decided that Walker should get in a supply of golf clubs.

They ultimately arrived and Walker, pleading innocence, had the "board" direct him as to how the clubs would be displayed in the windows.

Shortly after the window had been arranged a man walked in the store and asked for a mid-iron.

Now if you asked Walker how deep to cast your rod for trout or what Ty Cobb hit in 1907 he could tell you right off the bat. But a mid-iron—Oh! boy!

"Sure, we have mid-irons," Walker said as he looked at Briggs and the rest for aid. But the "board" walked en masse out of the door.

"Here is one of the best in stock," Walker said as he grabbed a strange-looking affair.

The customer looked at it a minute and smiled.

"No, I said a mid-iron, not a niblick," he said.

"Oh, sure, a mid-iron," Walker answered as the sweat appeared on his brow and he reached blindly into the showcase and brought out a brassie.

"I guess you are not acquainted with golf clubs," the man said as he looked at Walker.

But he bought it at that.

AS TO HANDSOME MEN.
Ken Williams and Jimmy Austin are both famous big league ball players but nobody ever claimed they were the best looking men in the world.

Nick Altrock, the noted baseball comedian, is considered the homeliest man in the world.

When Williams and Austin were wintering at Laguna Beach, they, with their wives, who are still at the little beach resort, dropped into a local store for a chat with a friend.

"Austin, Altrock and myself are considered to be the best looking men in the big leagues," Williams remarked as he turned to the crowd.

"Don't compare my husband with Nick Altrock," Mrs. Austin said. "All good-looking men are conceited."

MIGHT HAVE BEEN WORSE.
What would you think if you had spent four months in auto travel over all of the Western states without once getting stuck? Then you roach California with that grand and glorious feeling and hum along over the paved boulevards for which the state is famous.

That is what Mr. and Mrs. Frank Evans of Columbus, Ohio, did—but that is only half of the story.

Mr. and Mrs. Evans are related to Mrs. Frank Lyons, Mrs. Emma J. Bull and E. T. Langley of Santa Ana.

They arrived here the other day for a visit after a trip that has taken them many miles since November 5, last. Not once did they get stuck—until day before yesterday.

They started for Laguna to see the beauties of the little beach city. They saw it and started on for Arch Beach. But the road, since the recent rain, is in none too good condition and it was decided to turn around and come back to Santa Ana.

LOST CHILDREN IN CITY CAUSE POLICE STIR

Nonchalant Little Wanderers
Not Worried About Absence from Home

Santa Ana police freely admitted today that amusing lost children is some job.

The police were called on to help round up four youthful strays in Santa Ana yesterday. Today they were looking for Carl Turner, 13, of Huntington Beach, reported by his mother, Mrs. L. A. Turner, as having left home Sunday night in company with another boy in a Ford touring car, license number 663,537. The mother feared that Turner might have met with an accident.

The police force and other citizens wiped a perspiring brow yesterday after relocating several lost youngsters in their homes. They were willing to admit that a small boy, who can't remember his own name but who has a lively imagination, is a mine of interesting possibilities for excitement.

Two such small boys appeared at the office of Duane Holmes, Fifth and Main, during the afternoon. They were Billie Duke and Charlie Lininger, 925 French, but to Holmes they were only two boys of about 5 or 6, patently lost and unable to tell their names or addresses. However, this was probably because they didn't have time for such trifles, being interested in the down town architecture.

"Where do you live?" asked Holmes.

"Oh, over there," replied one boy, pointing a finger airily.

"Let's take a ride," suggested Holmes. "Want to?"

"Uh huh," they answered and clambered into his car.

Holmes drove in the direction of "over there." Reaching the neighborhood which he judged had been pointed out, he again asked:

"Now where is your house?"

"Oh, down that way," and one of the lads pointed carelessly toward the other side of town as he gazed intently at a puppy that was trying to squeeze through a lattice fence. The other boy was too busy sight seeing to answer.

Holmes turned his car and sought the new direction, which was confidently repeated until Holmes thought he must be near the place.

By that time it had shifted again.

"Oh, its over there," pointed the boys, indicating still another part of the city.

Holmes gave up and took the lads to police headquarters.

"This is too big a job for me," he confessed.

Billie and Charlie viewed the police station and City Marshal Sam Jernigan with frank curiosity. The adventure was getting better every minute. They took possession of headquarters and asked so many questions that the police found their usual role of inquisitor reversed. The cops couldn't get in a word edgewise.

Then two anxious mothers telephoned headquarters and the adventure was terminated.

Before the day was over another boy, reported as lost, was found by the mother herself at 3:45 p. m.

Motorcycle Officer Frank Stewart was called to help search for a little girl who wandered away from the home she was visiting with her mother, on Cypress street. City Clerk E. L. Vegeley finally found her some distance away.

GAY YAMA YAMA GIRLS FEATURE AT BIG DANCE

Ebbel Club's Big Party to Be Repeated Tonight;
Many to Attend

Rivalling if not surpassing the gaiety of the Ebbel dancing party held at the Excelsior Creamery company's garage on East Walnut street last Friday night, the fete will be repeated tonight, when what is declared will be one of the merriest gatherings ever known in the city will be held in the great building.

The "Lord of Mischief" will reign as he does in the famed Mardi-gras of New Orleans. Bevy of pretty girls in quaint yama yama costumes will whirl their laughing way through the crowd. Strings of serpentine confetti will entangle the dancing feet of the dancers, and sparkling-eyed gypsies will add their seductive wiles to other attractions.

When the success of the first social evening was so pronounced, the demand for a repetition was unanimous, and coupled with the demand from those present, was an even more insistent one from the young people of the high school, who were unable to attend as they were presenting an entertainment on the same evening.

Many New Features.
In compliance with the enthusiastic demand for the second evening, Mrs. Roy Hall, representing the general membership of Ebbel club, and Mrs. Samuel Nan, chairman of the ways and means committee, ascertained that the "immense" space would be available for the club's use at a second evening, through the courtesy of the Excelsior Creamery company, and thereupon announced a repetition of Ebbel's "hospitality night."

In order to vary the offering, many changes have been introduced, and while the same excellent music by Bouldin's ten-piece orchestra will be one of the main features, and will offer irresistible inducement to dancers, there will be many new features, all of which are expected to prove particularly attractive to members of the younger set.

One of the new features will be a fishpond, where, for a small sum, those so inclined may see what finny prize the placid waters holds for them, as they bait their hooks under the direction of Mrs. C. P. Boyer.

Plan Special Dance.
One of the special dances as planned by Mrs. Adrian McCann will be a lucky dance, for which each set of partners will be provided with a number. As numbers are called, their holders will leave the dancing floor until the final couple is awarded the prize.

Realizing that such strenuous fun will excite hunger, an ample supply of sandwiches will be in readiness under the charge of Miss Prudence Macomber and other Drama-Short story section members, while to accompany the sandwiches will be amber coffee prepared under the direction of the Music-Drama section, with Mrs. Harry Matthews as leader.

Mr. Edwin Dickinson will continue to preside at the punch bowl, where, with her trusty aides, she will also dispense toothsome Eskimo pies, while Mrs. Fred Rowland will continue to superintend the selling of delicious home-made candy, with the aid of a group of yama yama girls.

COURT RULES CRANE WILL HERE IS VALID

Judgment has been entered today in the superior court in favor of Mrs. Alice Vail, defendant in a civil action brought by her nephew, Samuel R. Crane, to oust her from possession of the home at 710 South Main street, Santa Ana, given to her by her brother, William Crane, father of Samuel Crane.

S. R. Crane sued for possession of the property, together with $900 damages for her retention of it, alleging that his father was mentally incompetent when the property was transferred to the aunt who had nursed the elder Crane, her brother.

The defense maintained that William Crane had been in sound mind at the time of the arrangement which was effected, it was claimed, as a reward for the sister's care.

POSTAL SAVINGS SHOW SUBSTANTIAL INCREASE

WASHINGTON, March 14—Indications of improvement in the general industrial situation were seen by officials in the report today of February postal savings transactions, showing a slight increase in deposits over withdrawals for the first month since January, 1921.

The total net deposits on March 1 were shown to be approximately $145,000,000. Substantial increase in deposits was reported generally by the larger postoffices, it was said, but these were largely offset by the decreases at the smaller offices. Considerable improvement in the latter was expected, however, with the approach of spring.

Officials reporting gains of $25,000 or more during February included New York, $513,252; Boston, $144,834; Brooklyn, $88,269; Chicago, $37,098; and Seattle, $31,176.

LOCOMOTIVE WORKS CHIEF SEES GREAT BUSINESS REVIVAL

By SAMUEL M. VAUCLAIR,
President of the Baldwin Locomotive works, in an interview with Edward M. Thierry for Newspaper Enterprise Association.

PHILADELPHIA, March 14—Business is rapidly getting on a sound basis in both this country and in Europe.

Wholesome signs of a permanent improvement are plentiful here and I observed many during the trip I recently took through European countries.

Next fall will see us all busy, though considering everything present conditions are very satisfactory. The chief requirement for continued improvement is confidence. Prosperity is coming back. Not later than next October I think we will see more business than at any time in 12 months.

I found Europe in much better shape. There is a scarcity of business there, as here. But we cannot expect 100 per cent business when so much of the world is out of the market or is recovering from the effects of the war.

Germany is the busiest country in Europe because of the low value of the mark. The Germans can contend in the open market because of the relative value of wages and cost of production figured in marks. Their labor rates are ridiculously low, while ours of course are higher than before the war.

These things will gradually be equalized here and help business to improve.

Twenty-five per cent of the world is dead commercially. Russia, for instance, is lying dormant. Of the 75 per cent of the world that is in the market only 50 per cent is active.

In business and industry Europe really is running at higher speed than America. They are operating about 50 per cent capacity, while we are running about 30 per cent.

Indications, however, are that people are being compelled to buy more and more and affairs are reaching a sane and solid foundation. Values are improving. Railroad securities are showing a healthy strength. And the government is displaying a disposition to effect economy. Many persons may grumble, but we must give the government a chance. Decisions cannot be made to suit individuals, a particular class or a special business; they must be for the general good.

The value of the dollar is increasing and, I think, will continue to do so. As the purchasing power increases bank interest rates will be lower, food and clothing and railroad rates will be lower, and labor will settle down.

We are miles ahead of where we were a year ago. There is certain suffering, but nothing compared to Europe's. While Europe was getting better, America was getting worse. But we're climbing up again—fast.

WIRELESS PHONE ACTIVITIES AT POLY GROW

When a fleet-footed athlete crosses the tape in the Southern California meet on the Santa Ana high school track, April 22, the word will go flashing through the air to the waiting students in a hundred communities within a 1200-mile radius.

This is the intention of the Engineering club at the high school here. Results of the meet at San Diego last Saturday were received, and the lads are now constructing a powerful sending apparatus to enable them to provide similar service to other schools in the section.

Within the past few months the members of the club have displayed marked interest in wireless telephony. A ninety-foot aerial was erected, and receiving instruments have been built. In order to obtain experience, it was stated, as much of the apparatus as is possible is built by the lads themselves.

The receiving instrument is capable of "listening in" on concerts, conversations and code messages, according to Claude Hayward, one of the prima movers. He stated that during the receipt of the message from San Diego Saturday, he overheard a conversation between operators on battleships near the bay city.

The local operators will listen in on the concerts soon to be provided by a Los Angeles newspaper, which has promised to transmit grand opera from the large auditorium in the city.

In addition to that the newspaper will maintain a news service, which the young men will receive.

Messages have been received from distant points, the boys say. Concerts and phonograph music have been received from places as far distant as Salt Lake city. Amateur radio operators in Orange county communicate at will.

Members of the club are awaiting with interest the regulations now being discussed by the federal authorities. Herbert N. Alleman, instructor in manual arts at the high school, supervises the lads in their work. About thirty belong to the engineering club, which is also active in steam engineering and mechanical drawing, and most recently has taken up aircraft studies. Dwight Hamilton, William Adams, Harry Farrar and Claude Hayward are prominent in the wireless venture.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG
It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c and 30c.

VAGRANCY CHARGE IS PLACED AGAINST MAN FIRST HELD AS THIEF

The charge of burglary against him having been withdrawn, W. F. Mowry was in the county jail today, sentenced to serve thirty days for vagrancy.

When Mowry told his story before Justice J. B. Cox at his preliminary examination late yesterday, it appeared that the vagrancy charge fitted his case better than that of burglary.

He had stopped, travel weary, to take a nap in a vacant house on the B. H. Sharpless ranch, at Tustin. He had no evil design, it developed, his only purpose being to rest.

He was discovered there by Mrs. Sharpless, who went to her house for a gun, after locking Mowry inside the vacant house, and held him until her husband arrived.

J. Smith, arrested in this city by Deputy Sheriff Roy Ballard on a vagrancy charge, was also sentenced to thirty days in jail by Justice Cox.

NO DELEGATES FROM HERE AT CONFERENCE

Santa Ana will not be represented tomorrow at the opening session of the Colorado River commission meeting in Phoenix, and so far as could be ascertained today, no one from Orange county will be present.

The Orange County Farm Bureau and the Santa Ana Valley Irrigation company have not delegated representatives to the meeting.

The Playground A Moral Agent

Hey, all you little girls and boys, what do you think about this Chicago superintendent of schools who declares "Ring around the rosy" is much more important than "two times four equals eight?" To that end Chicago proposes to double her playgrounds next year so that the kiddies may have more wholesome play. A few years ago public playgrounds, supervised play made a bid for recognition. They had to keep on explaining themselves, to fight their way to public favor. It was hard for people to realize that play had any real value in a child's life. Playgrounds were considered a fad. Now serious men stand in the presence of other serious men and tell them it is more important to know how a man plays, if one would judge of his character than how he works. And they are understood. We move right along. The playground as a moral agent no less than as a physical and health help is now clearly appreciated everywhere.

HITS PROPOSALS ON GENERATING PLANT, SEWER

is for lighting the city streets, the plain inference intended to be conveyed being that at least as great an area will be given municipal service as is at present served, when in reality the proposed service is not intended for the entire city but simply for certain restricted portions of the business district, but for which the entire city will have to pay, and while there may be difference of opinion as to the justice of this method of raising the money there can be no division of sentiment as to the propriety of seeing to it that we get what we pay for.

"And as a step in this direction it may be well to bear in mind that under the proposed municipal ownership plan it is intended to generate electricity not only for the city but for the entire county in Central or Southern California is generating its own electricity; even those municipalities owning their distributing systems purchasing their energy from the Edison company.

Steam Plants Idle
"Abandoned steam plants of the character which Santa Ana is considering installing, or better, are now lying idle and are offered for sale at bargain prices by nearby municipalities which are finding it more profitable to purchase their requirements from the Edison company than to operate their own plants—in fact of the fact that he plant investment has already been made and the only additional expense would be for operation.

"Even if the cost of the service were the same, or less than can be afforded by the present system it must be apparent that there is an inequality in taxing the whole city in order ornamentally to illuminate a few favorite streets. Other cities establish lighting districts and those who benefit directly from the illumination are called upon to pay the cost. Why not establish lighting districts in Santa Ana?

"The officials of the City of Santa Ana who are sponsoring the $75,000 worth of bonds, the proceeds of the sale of which are to be used to install electrical generating equipment at the city pumping plant for the purpose of furnishing electricity to supply ornamental street lighting on some of our favorite streets, have not made the slightest effort to show that the investment is a judicious one. As a matter of cold fact, the $75,000 would be wasted were the plant installed and worse than wasted should it be operated, because it would be run at a loss.

"Go and Do Likewise"
And in support of the foregoing statement and with all due respect for the ability of the officials of Santa Ana, including the city trustees, we do not feel that their ability transcends the ability of officials and executives of other cities that might be mentioned. Therefore, if Anaheim, Pasadena, Glendale, Long Beach, San Bernardino, Riverside, Monrovia and other cities can afford to shut down their steam plants and purchase energy from the Edison company it is because they get it cheaper than they can supply it themselves. And common horse sense should decide the authorities of Santa Ana to go and do likewise.

"To sum up the situation, the proposition to expend $75,000 in installing electrical generating apparatus at the city's pumping plant does not carry the merit of even being considered as an experiment, as other cities close at hand have tried out and abandoned as flat failures everything in this connection that the city trustees are suggesting for Santa Ana.

As To Outfall Sewer
"So far as the outfall sewer is concerned there can be no room for argument as to the necessity for proper sewage disposal, but the staggering figure of $321,000, as against the wartime estimate of a little more than one-third of that sum, is enough to cause the average taxpayer to stop, look and listen before assuming his share of that huge burden.

"For an estimate four years ago made by Col. S. H. Finley and then Sewer Superintendent Ransom Reid was the sum of $127,000 for an outfall sewer of sufficient capacity to serve the city for at least twenty years, Santa Ana to bear the entire cost, while now, under the proposed partnership plan, the cost has been fixed at nearly three times that sum.

"Having been intimately connected with every step of the negotiations looking to the better disposal of Santa Ana's sewage, including the purchase of a right of way into the ocean and the contract with the Southern California Sugar company for the use of its pipeline for a period of seven years, I believe I may with reason claim the right to know something of the sewage disposal necessities of Santa Ana, and while keenly alive to the need of a proper outfall sewer for this city, I am just as deeply impressed with the importance of paying no more than such a convenience should cost.

Makes Suggestion
"Merely as a suggestion therefore in the line of economy it might be mentioned that the sugar factory pipeline, a part of the capacity of which served the city for several years, will not be needed by the owners this present year and possibly for years to come, and the sugar company might possibly be glad to continue indefinitely the arrangement whereby it has been receiving $200 a month for the use of the pipeline. If this can be done, and there seems no reason why it can not be, it would tide over the matter of new construction for at least a year or two, at which time the plan now contemplated could be carried out at greatly lessened cost.

"Anyway, the taxpayers should be given the fullest chance to know all about this proposed sewer outfall plan and not be sidetracked with offhand assertions of more or less competent authorities that the way by them suggested is the only way and must be endorsed at the polls on election day.

On Street Paving
"We need street paving, but what we need far more is that the streets already paved be given some little attention in the way of maintenance as conditions in this respect are and have been for the past few years simply scandalous and a disgrace to the city, outside of the fact that much expense will be necessary for replacements that would not be called for if the matter of maintenance had been half way attended to.

"West Fifth street is a horrible example. This street, from Baker street west to the city limits, if attended to even a few months ago, might have been repaired and put in good shape at nominal expense, but $200 would pay for all the repairs made there for the past two years with the result that for many months the street has been virtually impassable, and for a considerable part of it will now have to be repaved throughout.

"West Fourth street also has been neglected until it will require thousands of dollars to put it in passable shape, while lack of proper attention on the part of those responsible has resulted in deplorable conditions along other paved streets. This repair work is popularly supposed to be looked after by the street department, but so far as publicly known settled into a rut, and all efforts to get it out were unsuccessful. There is a yarn of how a motorist reached Santa Ana after passing over all of the most criticized roads in automobiledom with a perfect record only to get stuck in Orange county.

Just then little Drew, the fiery office boy, casually remarked, "I guess the guy that wrote these safety week signs around town and spelled it 'salty' meant well enough, if you know what I mean."

MORRIS IN LIMELIGHT.
Tom Morris, the old-time professional sprinter and former resident of Santa Ana, gave the frisky athletes of the Los Angeles Coast league baseball club a few thrills the other day up at Elsinore.

C. W. ("Toke") Raney, of Santa Ana, a former pal of Morris and a star sprinter himself in the early track days, was telling about it today.

"It seems that Morris was caretaker of the ball park where the Los Angeles club was going through its spring training work. "Wade Killefer, the Angels' manager, came out to the park early one morning and saw the strangest sight of his life. There was Tom Morris, 57 years old, dashing around the field, clad in a natty little track suit. His long whiskers were flying back of him. Then Morris stopped sprinting and began trying some stunts.

"Killefer was dumfounded. He went out and timed Morris over fifty yards and then left to inform his athletes not to boast too much about their speed or the old boy would get them into a match race for a few shekels on the side."

TO ELECT TRUSTEES
WILLOWS, March 14.—There will be three vacancies on the board of town trustees at the municipal election to be held on April 10. Four nominations were filed—Leon Spier, J. F. Corbett, Fred Danner and W. Allen. The last named has withdrawn, and there will now be no contest.

that branch of municipal activities has ceased to function, although the fund for its support has regularly diminished to the vanishing point.

For Fire Protection
"The plan for additional fire protection should be given every support, and not only should there be a fire house provided for the east side of town but for the west end also, as Santa Ana is rapidly growing westward and the section of the city is entitled to every protection that can be afforded it.

"The proposal to ornament and beautify Birch park should be warmly supported, as money spent that way will bring immediate returns, and as the city is so lamentably lacking in this particular, she should not hesitate to make the very best of what she has.

"Yours respectfully,
"GEORGE McPHEE."

NO DELEGATES FROM S. A. TO ATTEND MEET

appointed as one of the delegates from the California Real Estate association is not in position to attend. Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce, will preside over the conference. Reports from Phoenix are to the effect that there will be a large attendance of men who are interested in the project to conserve the waters of the Colorado river and prevent them doing damage as they have in the past in the winter months.

Construction of a dam across Boulder canyon for control of the waters of the river and prevention of the flooding of the Imperial valley will be discussed. Construction of a dam by the national government is proposed.

The dam would accomplish three things, its proponents say—provide a flood control agency for the lower Colorado river basin, create a huge reservoir that would make possible the irrigation of hundreds of thousands of acres of land and would be a source of hydroelectric power in tremendous quantities.

TO INVESTIGATE PHONE SYSTEM FURTHER

Directors of the Orange County Farmers' and Merchants' association today were prepared to investigate further the plan of installing a mutual telephone system, following the hearing of an outline of the scheme as presented by H. B. Woodrough, secretary, at the farm bureau office here last night.

It was decided to invite one or two prominent officials of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company to attend the next meeting of the association in an effort to go over the ground more thoroughly before definite action was taken.

The proposed plan as outlined last night by Woodrough would create three rural telephone exchange zones located at such points in the county as community of interest and density of population should dictate. The association would lease or purchase all existing lines in such areas outside of incorporated cities but in case such lines could not be obtained, the association would construct its own lines.

Trunk Lines to Connect
Under the plan, trunk lines would connect these three exchanges, so that any member could reach any other member.

To reach the incorporated towns, Woodrough stated, an agreement could be reached with the existing ty for extremes in any of them. I agree with Mrs. Gardiner that we should train ourselves first, that we may be better qualified to train the young people."

Praises Suggestion
"I think the suggestion is splendid," said Mrs. T. L. Warren. "It is quite possible the Santa Ana W. C. T. U. will discuss this and similar matters in detail. Some of the modern kissing games are harmful and a return to the old-fashioned games would be a step in the right direction."

Mrs. John Clarkson, president of the Ebell club, said that the home influence was a factor that should play a prominent part in the up-bringing of the young people of today.

"Our young people are influenced to a great extent by the example we set them," she explained. "Anything that is likely to have a tendency to raise the moral standard should be encouraged by all those interested in the future of our young folks."

Declaring that she would bring the question before the members of the Santa Ana W. C. T. U., Mrs. J. H. Scott, said that she was heartily in favor of any movement that would contribute to wholesome, innocent amusements, designed to revive interest in the cleaner pastimes of other days.

ONE MAN SLAIN IN WAR ON BOOTLEGGERS

NEW YORK, March 14.—One man was killed early yesterday in a battle between alleged bootleggers and rum runners in New York harbor. In another pistol fight between two women, a man and a detective, an officer was shot and wounded.

Police are holding Molly Perselli, 30, charging her with shooting Detective Vance Levander during a raid on what is believed to be the terminus of an automobile booze smuggling system.

company by paying a monthly switching charge per member, or that franchise could be secured and the association could install its own lines and exchanges.

The approximate cost per phone, according to Woodrough, would be about $125, and the annual charge about $21, or $1.75 a month. This would allow for maintenance, depreciation and replacements, he said.

"An investment of at least $125 per member would be required," Woodrough stated. "That would be on the basis of 4000 members. A certain per cent would pay cash and a note for the rest of the amount and a third unit 25 per cent cash and their note."

Makes Exhaustive Probe
"In preparing my report I endeavored to go over the ground in a thorough manner. I investigated existing conditions in other sidelights and particularly at Pomona, where such lines are in operation.

"I talked with many persons who gave me interesting sidelights and information. I conferred with officials of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company on two different occasions."

Woodrough said that officials of the company had stated their willingness to come here and discuss the matter with the association at any time.

The board of directors expressed their desire to hear the officials and it was decided to ask them to come to a meeting to be called probably within a month, it was indicated.

Pays Big Fine
"I always thought if the doctors couldn't help my stomach and liver trouble, nobody else could. It has cost me nine hundred dollars and I have paid my fine. It remained for Mayr's Wonderful Remedy to do the trick. I have been in the best of health since taking it more than a year ago." LIFE AND CHARACTER READING
The governing sign of this date is Pisces, the sign of the feet, and the governing planets are Jupiter and Neptune. The astral colors are black, white and onyx and the birthstone is a turquoise.
People of this date have a deep religious feeling, and because of their great persistency and natural loyalty, they cling to an early belief or a creed, even when they are very much shaken as to its correctness. When they do change they are apt to excuse themselves by saying it is not so different after all from what they had previously believed. There is an innate modesty of both old and young born under this sign.
People of this date usually have a full face, with placid sleepy eyes, and are apt to be round-shouldered.

EVENING SALUTATION

"Against diseases known, the strongest fence is the defensive virtue, abstinence."—Benjamin Franklin.

THINKS ACT UNCONSTITUTIONAL

A new and interesting question has been raised regarding the water and power act which will be submitted to the voters of the state next fall and that relates to its constitutionality. This point has been raised by Senator Curtin, who is a recognized authority on constitutional questions; and if he is correct in his view the passage of the act would simply mean litigation and the casting of a cloud on all developments undertaken within the provisions of the law. The Redlands Facts gives the following resume of the issues raised by Senator Curtin:

Over in rather an obscure part of the old mining section of California, at Sonora, lives John B. Curtin, former state senator and once candidate for governor, now a lawyer with a goodly practice, director of a bank, and an all-around leading citizen. In the Senate they called him "Constitutional John" because of his inevitable search after something in any proposed law which would make it unconstitutional. And he often found what he was looking for, to the great dismay of many a budding legislator. Incidentally "Constitutional John" was very active in framing the present state tax scheme, which we do not like at all down here in San Bernardino county.

A short time ago Senator Curtin dropped a bombshell into the ranks of the American Legion by declaring that the measures enacted by the legislature at the last session thereof for the relief of ex-service men, were unconstitutional. And he set up such a showing that the attorney general of the state ordered all activities of that kind stopped until the matter could be gone into thoroughly.

Now comes "Constitutional John" again, and his object of attack this time is the five hundred million dollar bond act which is offered to the people as an initiative act this coming November. Of course, a lot of other men have said worse things about the proposed act than to call it unconstitutional, but Senator Curtin may be the man to throw it under the table.

The water and power act would authorize the bonding of the state for $500,000,000, which, according to Curtin, places it in the same class as the welfare legislation in so far as loaning the state's credit, prohibited by the Constitution, is concerned.

Curtin points out that the water and power act would permit the loaning out of sums of the $500,000,000 to cities and counties to aid them in the development of their own water and power, and extending of such aid, he claims, would constitute loaning credit.

SALVATION ARMY ON RESULTS OF PROHIBITION

Commander Evangeline Booth of the Salvation Army, an organization that probably gets closer to the poor and the down and outs of the country than any other organization in the land, and therefore knows the effect of the liquor traffic as well as any organization can possibly know it, makes the most telling statement concerning the wonderful benefits of prohibition since the enactment of the Eighteenth Amendment. She says that the population in penal institutions is reduced; that many jails are converted into dwelling apartments, and prisons turned into schools and social centers. She states that prohibition has improved health and reduced mortality in the country. In the city of Boston during the year deaths by accident dropped one-third, deaths from suicide one-fifth, and deaths from alcoholism 79 per cent. The Metropolitan Life Insurance company reports about the same percentage of decrease in fatalities among those previously addicted to drink.

She says that the homes in the slums are immensely improved, and in place of the bread lines the men now support their families and increase their bank accounts. The one outstanding and commanding result of the prohibition amendment, according to Commander Booth, is the increase of the privileges and opportunities of life for the boys and girls of the poorer classes of our country. Indeed, as Evangeline Booth so beautifully puts it:

"It means that in the future we shall have less to do with the grave and more to do with the cradle, less binding up of life's broken plants and more training of life's untrammelled vines; that more of our energy, our ingenious methods, will be thrown into the work of prevention, which in the final analysis must be so much more valuable to the home, the nation and the kingdom of God than even the most worthy work of cure."

A BRIGHT OUTLOOK

"Aren't you newspaper fellows going too strong on this optimism stuff, with reference to business and industrial conditions?" asked the Rev. J. A. Stevenson the other day.

Now, Mr. Stevenson is a mighty level-headed man, and withal an optimist of the first water—both by nature and culture. Therefore we've been thinking over what he said—watching our step, so to speak.

However, never-the-less, notwithstanding, but we still believe that the right thing to do is to think talk and live prosperity.

Reviving industry in California and other Pacific Coast states is reported, for the month of February, by the Department of Labor, in its industrial survey. There was some retarding of ranch work in this state by rains and building construction also was hampered somewhat. But liveliness in the building industry is expected to ensue as soon as weather conditions throughout the state become settled.

It is quite encouraging indeed that all official reports, including those by the Federal Reserve banks, the Department of Labor, and from other authoritative sources and from influential experts, agree in denoting revival already set in and prospects unmistakably favorable for industrial betterment and brisker business.

There are some untoward conditions yet, it is true. There are phases of the situation which could be better—which doubtless will be better ere long. But, taking the Nation over, the peak of unemployment, dependable reports indicate, has been reached. There is reasonable ground to hope that this spring and summer will more nearly approximate normal in economic conditions in this country than any period since the Armistice.

STRENGTH IN ORGANIZATION

It looks as though the bean growers of Orange county this year will retrieve some of the losses they have had to stand during the past few seasons.

Rain has fallen in great plenty. Indications are that the crop will be one of a record nature. According to the experts who addressed growers of this county Saturday, the outlook for prices is encouraging. Old crop beans are cleared away, and the general prospect is such that growers should receive fairly good returns this year.

Now is the time for the industry to take every possible step in strengthening itself. Now is the time for the growers to seek co-operative action so that they will get this year all that they are entitled to—and they are entitled to the best possible prices in order to even up for lean years.

Without co-operation the bean grower is at the mercy of every market wind that blows. Through the association, the best possible results have been obtained during periods of depression. The only reason why conditions have not been weathered more successfully than proved possible was because too many growers were outside the association.

For the future of the industry—this year, next year and the years following—growers of Orange county ought to stand shoulder to shoulder in fighting their own fight. The co-operative principle has been demonstrated as the only feasible plan under which California crops can be sustained. Any disorganized crop must fail.

The bean crop is too big a thing for Orange county for anyone to stand in the way of making it permanently strong. Membership in the local associations ought to represent 100 per cent of the acreage of the county. Every effort ought to be put forth to bring the acreage within the association to as nearly 100 per cent of that planted as it is possible for it to be. The grower who gives his own time toward making the effort is meeting his responsibilities as a citizen and as a grower engaged in the great bean industry.

COMES HIGH BUT HE PAYS

The plain American citizen files his income tax return and never thinks of such a thing as cancellation of indebtedness.—Washington, D. C., Star.

Community Property

San Francisco Chronicle

The Supreme Court of the United States has just sustained a decision of the lower courts that in states whose laws give wives a half interest in the family estate a widow may take her share upon the death of her husband free of any inheritance tax. It is said that the decision will involve refunds in this state to the amount of about $2,000,000. It appears that seven other states have similar laws, but that only in this state have inheritance taxes been collected. As the Federal administration is supposed to be unified that statement, if true, requires explanation.

It is claimed that while this decision involves only inheritance taxes it will apply to income surtaxes. The larger the income the higher the percentage of surtax. Incomes of $50,000 pay a higher rate than those of $25,000. Therefore, if a man with an income of $50,000 registers half of it in the name of his wife the surtax of each will be at the lower rate and there will be a family saving.

Presumably it will be tried out in the courts and some interesting legal questions will arise. What is the nature of the wife's title? Is it complete and exclusive in the ordinary meaning of the word title? Is it necessary for the husband to "register" it in the wife's name? May he not return and pay taxes only on his own half, leaving his wife to struggle independently with the tax collector? If not, is not his registry a "gift" to escape taxation, which the law does not allow? And in case of divorce, a very common occurrence in these days, what becomes of the wife's "title," if it is a title? Is the wife entitled to her half of the income as it comes in? If so, is it subject to attachment for a debt of her husband, who does not own it?

We give it all up. But one can see that the community property doctrine concretely carried to its apparent logical conclusion leads one into all sorts of perplexities.

The Comparative of Egg

Leslie's Weekly

Leslie's Weekly: In the old days there were two kinds of eggs—good eggs and bad. There were no intermediate stops. But times have changed. A merely good egg is a pretty poor specimen nowadays; as for bad eggs, they are practically extinct, commercially. No egg is ever so bad, that its case is hopeless. There is always a place—for it some where. Five grades of meaning are given to the word fresh, by those who deal in eggs. The old-fashioned buyer, doing the family marketing (in person, not by telephone), must not be surprised at a number of unpleasant discoveries if he buys merely fresh eggs. Fresh eggs, in the retail classification, are rather far down the scale. Fresh may mean fresh in the dictionary, but it is accompanied by no such guarantee in the grocery or delicatessen shop. One grade above "fresh eggs" are eggs "strictly fresh." Strictly fresh would seem to be the last word in reassurance, but not so. Let your eye roam along the line of frank and open egg crates and you will come to have a poor opinion of "strictly." A grade above "strictly fresh eggs" are "fancy eggs." God wot! The line of march is about as follows in the most dependable shops:

Fresh eggs.
Strictly fresh eggs.
Fancy eggs.
Extra fancy eggs.
Fancy new laid eggs.
Guaranteed fancy new laid eggs.
You gather from this now, retail shopkeeper ranks a mere "fresh egg." It amounts almost to scorn. As for good eggs, while some dealers still handle them, the best have no use for any eggs so low. In the bright lexicon of the egg dealer, the comparative of good is worse; the superlative worst. When an egg is too bad to be "good," it is made into egg powder and sold to the baker. But that is another story.

Mr. McAdoo's Coming

Long Beach Press

Welcome indeed to the people of Southern California is the announcement that Mr. and Mrs. William G. McAdoo are coming to this section to reside permanently. Mr. McAdoo and his estimable wife—the latter a daughter of former President Wilson—have visited this city and by their unostentatious geniality and democratic manners have captured all who have met them.

Coming of Mr. McAdoo to this state to reside is of unusual interest. Naturally, it has started the political prognosticators to work. Mr. McAdoo is one of the most powerful and influential men in the Democratic party. As secretary of the treasury and director-general of railroads during the World War period his achievements were brilliant and will be prominent in the annals of that historic period. Mr. McAdoo's name figured very prominently in the Democratic national convention for the Presidential nomination at San Francisco in 1920. Many of his strongest friends and supporters forewent the pressing of his name, feeling that 1924 would be a more opportune time for making Mr. McAdoo his party's nominee. Whether Mr. McAdoo's move to California will be used to enhance his political prestige in 1924 remains to be demonstrated. It would give zest indeed to the national political campaign two years hence to have Mr. McAdoo as a Presidential candidate from California.

KNOW WHAT YOU WANT

The man who does not know what he wants in life is in exactly the same position as the ship without a pilot. Neither one will get anywhere—except through a rare accident.

You must know not only what you want, but have a plan for going after it.

It is even better to aim and work for the thing you want and fail to get it than to aim at nothing and get what you don't want.

The man who knows what he wants stands in a class by himself. His feet are set and every wandering wind cannot upset his course. He has confidence in himself and other people trust him.

Know what you want—and then want it so thoroughly that you can't help but get it!

And want many things. It is all very well for one to be a "man of one idea," but the man with a score of ideas will get much more out of this running life. The intellect is made keen and alert by interest in many things. But whatever is attempted should be carried through happily, and with efficient care.

When you know what you want, you possess something that is silent within you—and cannot be taken from you.

The chemist often runs through several thousand experiments before he gets what he wants. But he knows when he is successful for he has had in mind that exact success from the start of the first experiment.

Know what you want—while the touch of youth is on, and while ambition is hot. Then, as you grow into the deepened shadows of advancing age, you will appreciate all the more every thrill that sent you forward.

But thinking and action must be happily combined. Listen, read, observe, study into things and search for reasons—but know in advance what you want—and stick to it!

THE LAND OF BEGINNING AGAIN

I wish that there were some wonderful place
Called the Land of Beginning Again,
Where all our mistakes, and all our heartaches
And all of our poor, selfish grief
Could be dropped like a shabby old coat at the door,
And never be put on again.

I wish we could come on it all unware,
Like the hunter who finds a lost trail;
And I wish that the one whom our blindness has done
The greatest injustice of all
Could be at the gates, like an old friend waits
For the comrade he's gladdest to hail.

We would find all the things we intended to do
But forgot, and remembered too late,
Little praises unspoken, little promises broken,
And all of the thousand and one
Little duties neglected that might have perfected
The day for one less fortunate.

It wouldn't be impossible to be kind
In the Land of Beginning Again;
And the ones we misjudged and the ones whom we grudge
Their moments of victory here,
Would find in the grasp of our loving handclasp
More than penitent lips could explain.

For what had been hardest we'd know had been best,
And what had seemed loss would be gain;
For there isn't a sting that will not take wing
When we've faced it and laughed it away;
And I think that the laughter is most what we're after
In the Land of Beginning Again!

Sales Tax on Business

Stockton Record

How the economic and political structure of the United States might be revolutionized by a gross sales tax was explained in an address before the National Automobile Dealers' association in session at Boston by Magnus W. Alexander of New York City, managing director of the national industrial conference board. Mr. Alexander asserted that gross sales tax would force out of business a multiplicity of small enterprises and build a few great businesses by vertical combination of industry. He said it would penalize the business that is of greatest benefit to society, namely, the one that operates at a small profit on a rapid turnover.

Each unit of sales being the basis of a one per cent tax, the speaker pointed out that the man whose total profit is derived from a small profit on each of 20 units would be taxed four times as heavily as the man who made the same profit by a large profit on each of five units.

It was shown from the federal census reports that only one-fifth of one per cent of the industrial establishments of the country employ 1000 workers or more. More than 99 per cent employ 200 or less and more than 95 per cent employ 100 or less. From this, he said, it is easy to see that the safety of this country, socially, economically, politically, lies in the great number of small distributed small industrial establishments. Mr. Alexander declared that congress in passing restrictive and regulatory legislation to cure the evils apparent in big business is oblivious of the fact that its laws are applicable to only one-fifth of one per cent of the business population. How the 99 per cent of business may be injured by such insight, is shown, he said, by the proposed sales tax.

Explaining further the managing director of the national industrial conference board said:

"It would impose a tax of 1 per cent every time a sale is made, no matter at what stage of perfection the article is in," he said. "When a packer sells a hide to a tanner there is a tax. When the tanner sells his product to the jobber there is a tax. When the jobber sells to the small manufacturer, who only makes part of a shoe, there is another tax. Thus by the time a pair of shoes is put on the market by a progressive line of small establishments, ten or a dozen taxes will have been absorbed."

"With the big manufacturer all but two of these taxes would be avoided. The first would have been paid when he buys the hide, and the second when he sells at retail to the man on the street, for the big manufacturer has absorbed all the intermediate processes and even his chain of retail stores. There would be no intermediate sales, except for book entries and no intermediate taxes."

"Thus 95 per cent of the business community would be injured. If you do not want the United States to become a country with a few big industries, controlled by the influence such a condition would exert on our political life, you do not want the sales tax."

Bear Stories for Bedtime

CHAPTER 293
A VISITOR AT THE CIRCUS MAN'S TENT
By Harvey Elliott

The next day the circus man and his partner were off bright and early in the direction in which they had seen Billy Bear go the night before. You see, they wanted to find the place where that young Bear lived. If they could only find where his home was, they thought they might be able to catch him.

The three dogs were still sore from their fight with Billy Bear, but the men let them go along, thinking they might follow his tracks. They took a long tramp around the forest, but they didn't see anything that looked like a Bear home.

Now Billy happened to hear them coming as he was out on a morning stroll, and he hid behind the bushes until they got by. He saw the two men and the three dogs he had dumped into the creek. He wondered who they had left to look after the camp.

"I'll just go over and see," chuckled Billy. "It won't do to leave that nice tent without anybody to guard it. Maybe I can watch it for them."

So Billy Bear, with a grin on his face, started for the circus man's tent. When he got there he sniffed all around, but saw no dogs nor anybody outside. The flap of the tent was down and he couldn't see whether anybody was on the inside or not. He pulled the flap back and looked all around.

"Anybody home?" he mumbled. No one replied.

"Some house, I'd say," said Billy. "Guess I'll go in."

Then Billy Bear did the impolite thing of going into the circus man's tent without being invited. But the circus man would not have hesitated to go into Billy Bear's house if he saw any body was at home, and why shouldn't Billy Bear enter his?

"Sniff! Sniff! Sniff!" Billy Bear went around smelling everything the circus man had. He found the skillet in which they had cooked pancakes for breakfast. They hadn't washed the grease out, so Billy helped clean things up. He licked the skillet until he could see his picture in it.

Billy found a paper sack that smelled good, too. It was half full of wienies. Billy sampled one and it tasted like more. In two shakes that sack of wienies wasn't any place to be seen. Then a stewpan full of pork and beans was next. They went where they could be close to the wienies. Billy knocked off one corner and laid it down to see what else was there. He could eat bread when he couldn't get anything else.

"Yum, yum, that's better," said Billy, smacking his lips. He had found half a chocolate cake. It slid down his throat like a lump of lead.

By this time Billy Bear was plumb full and couldn't eat any more. Then he sat down on the nice soft bed and thought what a wonderfully fine place the circus man's tent was to visit.
